

We've never bought into the saying, "Never kick a man while he's down." After all, when they're down, they're that much closer to your foot. With that in mind, we present...

AN EXCLUSIVE INTERVIEW WITH BILL WIRTZ FROM HELL

Q: So Bill, how's life in the flame treating you?

A: Oh it's all beach chairs and Mai Tai's! What do you think it's like, fuckstick? The beer's watered down, there's no gin because of some dispute with a distributor apparently. There's absolutely nothing on TV, there's an inch of water on my bathroom floor at all times, and if I go anywhere I have to pay $20 to park. Who could live under these conditions?

Q: Yes, who indeed? Anyway, what have you made of your son Rocky's stewardship of the Hawks?

A: You know the saying, "The apple doesn't fall far from the tree,"? Why isn't there one about the apple falling off and then kicking the tree in his drunken, wrinkled, saggy nuts? He's pissed on my legacy so much I smell like urine down here. Games on TV, full building, Foley back in the booth, it never ends. Bringing back Hull and that ridiculous wig? Why would you want someone who wears a deflated football on his head to represent your organization? Answer me that.

Q: Wow. Didn't know you would be so angry. Is that all?

A: Fuck no. I understand the need to make changes. Sometimes I'd drink whiskey instead of gin. I get that. But putting Pully out to pasture? That man was loyal like a dog. Sure, he also smelled like a dog, looked like a dog, drooled like a dog, GM'ed the team like a dog, and knew as much about hockey as a dog, but still...

Q: Well, surely you must appreciate that will all his moves the Blackhawks have become a profitable organization again, and Rocky's making lots of money.

A: The only thing better than people happily giving you something is people unhappily giving you something. That applies to anything. Money, gifts, respect, blowjobs, they're all better that way. Makes you feel like an emperor. I thought I made him harder than that when he was a child and I broke all of his toys.

Q: I guess the team's improved performance on the ice isn't bringing you much joy either, then?

God no! That's what makes players want to get paid. Worse yet, Rocky's paying them! Look at all these contracts being handed out! Seabrook, Byfuglien, Sharp. You don't build loyalty in your players that way. You break their spirit, that's how you make players loyal. I spent a lifetime chasing exciting, skilled, handsome forwards out of town. Hull, Roenick, Amonte, I've chased every good-looking scorer outta there. Now that Sharp'll be hornin' in on Wirtz's trim for years! Though I guess it doesn't matter, due to booze and age I haven't had an erection since 1968. That, and I'm dead.

A: Yeah, well, it's still better than Joe Louis Arena.
