HOW TO FINISH NEAR LAST PLACE WITH THE HIGHEST PAYROLL IN THE LEAGUE

By Jim Hendry, Chicago Cubs' GM

Read in Jim Hendry's own words how the Chicago Cubs managed to finish near the bottom of the National League Central Division with the highest payroll in the National League. Read the exciting chapters on the following topics:

- Why I signed Milton Bradley!
- Why I released Casey McGehee only to see him hit 20 home runs and drive in nearly 100 runs for a division rival!
- Why I hired former Pittsburgh general manager Dave Littlefield, the man who helped make the Pirates what they are today, as my special assistant!
- How I botched the recall of Micah Hoffpauir from our minor league team in Iowa by losing track of the number of days that he was in the minors!
- Why I signed players to long-term contracts with limited trade options!
